

Ben Teaches English Overseas

ben@benteachesenglishoverseas.com
www.benteachesenglishoverseas.com

CONTRACT REVIEW REQUEST FORM

Reset Form

What do you like about this contract?

I like that it is a job offer to teach english abroad. I don't really have any positive things to say other than that since i don't have many expectations...

What do you not like about this contract?

The salary is low... I expect to feel this way coming form my 70k corporate job but 17k (10k rmb) is a bit low. I wonder where my expectation should be.

What do you find of concern?

The working amount... just 10 vacation days while working weekends doesn't sound like it would be conducive to traveling, partying, or being social.

Have you broken the contract down by the net hourly pay? ☒ Yes ☐ No

If yes, what is it?

Related: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8rmLs_R1Bs4

80 cny/hr

What benefits are included that you like and which are lacking?

I like that Hefei is 2h bullet train away from Shanghai.

What have you negotiated thus far?

Nothing yet, just go the contract on 6/3/19

What would you like to negotiate?

Salary definitely... not sure how much more I can get out of them though. I have a 300/mo loan payment from school I have to make monthly that I'd at least like to balance out.

Are you working directly for a school/employer or is this an agency/recruitment firm? ☒ Yes ☐ No (Please provide more information)

I think I'm working directly for the employer (english first).

Is the salary quoted before or after tax?

Just after tax... 9k cny during probationary period and 10k after.

What is your gut telling you about this position?

It's telling me that it is low. But since I don't have any experience, this might just be me feeling entitled after leaving my previous high salary job in the states.

Is there anything you've discussed or been told that I should take into consideration when reviewing this contract?

They said that mandarin lessons can be provided by the school for free.

I was also told that housing was provided OR the employee can choose to live in the city and receive a housing allowance... I don't see a number in the housing allowance part of the contract though which I'm concerned about. I was also told that the provided housing was "honestly not that great".